'Trouble on the line' ahead for phone users

Current policies of the Federal Communications Commission will ultimately mean higher rates and poorer services for the vast majority of telephone users, Illinois Bell President James E. Olson said here Friday afternoon.

In remarks to the Illinois Press Association's spring convention, held at SIUE, Olson said his company is joining the nation's more than 1,600 independent telephone companies, 63 in Illinois, in urging the press to promote public debate over "this national crisis in communications."

Karl Monroe of Collinsville presided at the three-day IPA meeting ending Saturday.

The Illinois Bell president asked that Illinois newspapers bring to their readers "the true dimensions of the issue and its consequences, and encourage their informed opinion, whatever that opinion might be."

He said that the people who would suffer most from higher rates are the poor, the elderly, inner-city dwellers, people in small towns and rural areas.

Area's advantages numerous

(36th of a Bicentennial year Press-Record series)

Many advantages of this community were considered by the Niedringhaus family in establishing a new steel mill and city here in the 1890s.

An initial consideration was a list of eight factors believed to be present here and regarded as invaluable to a heavy industry like a steel production center.

Next were the kinds of advantages believed to be similar to what might be found on the periphery of any large population center.

These included:
1. Inexpensive land.
2. Water and railroad facilities.

3. Proximity of labor supply: The working population of St. Louis, at that time, could reach Illinois by two principal methods.

The Terminal Railroad ran "plug" trains from Union Station in St. Louis—where they stopped at Eads Bridge and the North Market Street ferry crossing—via the Merchants Bridge.

Also, the ferry from North Market landed in Venice, Ill., and connected with the Yellow Line streetcar, which terminated at Granite City.

The latter was the more popular means of transportation.

The McKinley Bridge and streetcar line, later the chief means of access to Granite City, were not built until some years later (1910).

4. Moderate taxes.
5. Cheap building materials: Building materials could be

Plan no fee on sewer tap-ons

SECOND OF A SERIES
Substantial state-federal grants and utilization of property taxes are proposed in the Madison County sanitary sewer installation program to meet the major cost of the project.

No sewer tap-on fee is planned, Attorney Harry E.

Hartman has reported. An inspection fee of $25 to verify the adequacy of the pipe connection is likely, he added.

A user charge of about $4 monthly is probable in order to meet necessary maintenance costs, the attorney said.

While the sanitary sewer planning involves a mammoth undertaking, costs are to be held to a minimum through competitive bidding and the benefits are expected to be major, Hartman said.

Growth in the places served seems certain to increase the overall assessment base of the Quad-City area, steadily reducing the rate necessary to retire general obligation bonds, he related.

In addition, in specific neighborhoods where the property tax impact would be felt the strongest, added state-federal help beyond the basic 75 per cent outside financing is highly likely.

Under the 75-25 funding plan, the county has been assured that the bulk of the cost will be met through state and federal grants, totaling $12,354,420 in Area One, $37,463 in Area Two and $1,218,413 in Area Three, a total of $14,360,296.

Bond issues proposed are $5 million in One (Chouteau-Nameoki-Venice Townships), $425,000 in Two (State Park Place) and $650,000 in Three (East Madison, Cloverleaf and Eagle Park Acres).

If the bonds are sold at an interest rate of 7 1/2 per cent over a 20-year retirement period, Hartman estimates that the tax rate per $100 of assessed valuation would be $4.90 in Area Three, $3.20 in Area Two and $1.49 in Area One.

Although the three rates differ, reflecting the differing assessment bases, the generally lower assessments in Two and Three, where it struck a

Guilty verdict in murder of Greg Ehlers

A jury at Edwardsville returned a verdict of guilty of murder Friday against Harry Bloodworth, 24, Bunker Hill, Ill., who was on trial in the fatal shooting of Gregory Ehlers, 28, of 4494 Vine St., Dec. 7, 1975, outside a mobile home at East 23rd Street and Nameoki Road.

The prosecution and defense attorneys completed their closing statements and the case was turned over to the jury at 9 p.m. Thursday.

Deliberations continued until about 11 p.m. when Circuit Judge William Beatty ordered the sequestered jurors returned to their motel rooms.

Deliberations resumed about 9 a.m. Friday and the guilty verdict was reached at 10:40 a.m. Friday.

Assistant State's Attorney Tom Faib, assisted by Phillip Weber, outlined a case alleging Bloodworth deliberately shot Mr. Ehlers five times.

Patrolman John Apperson, arriving on the scene, found Bloodworth standing over Mr. Ehlers and holding a pistol minutes after the shooting, it was alleged.

Defense Attorney William Brandt used several witnesses to show Bloodworth was in a confused mental state for more than 24 hours before the shooting.

Bloodworth then was called to the stand and testified he did not recall the shooting or much that happened from about the Friday night before the shooting until the shooting at 2:15 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 7.

Prosecution witnesses disagreed, and Granite City detectives cited statements Bloodworth made during questioning soon after the murders, including one in which he allegedly told officers he saw Mr. Ehlers come down the steps from the mobile home and reach for his pocket. Bloodworth said he was afraid Mr. Ehlers was reaching for a gun.

Later in the same interview, Bloodworth allegedly said he did not recall what had led up to the shooting, and the first thing he recalled was looking down and seeing that the slide on his gun was all the way out with all the bullets fired.

Brandt's defense witnesses included Bloodworth; his cousin, Roger Bloodworth; Linda Groch, a girl friend of Janice Biggs who was with her the night before the shooting; Andrew Matsinger, who lived in

Roy Feder dies; longtime retailer

Roland "Roy" Feder, 73, of 2120 Lindell Blvd., a partner in Feder-Huber Furniture Co., died at 3:35 p.m. Thursday at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Mr. Feder had been in the furniture business nearly all of his life and had been in partnership with Homer Huber since 1946. He retired in December 1974.

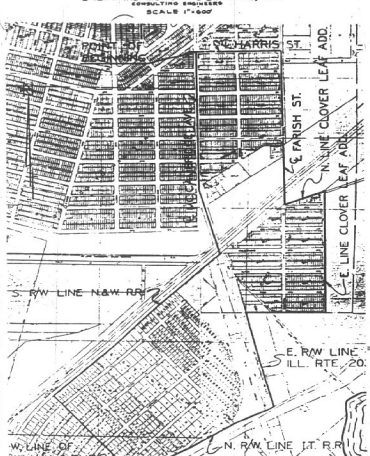

Mr. Feder was born in St. Louis and lived there until five years ago when he moved to Granite City. He worked about 16 years as a furniture salesman in Granite City prior to the time he and Huber opened their first furniture store at 1837 State St. in 1946. They later moved the store to 1908 State St., where it remained nearly 15 years.

On and off the record When stealing hearse, don't hit a police car

Charges are expected to be filed today in St. Louis against a 58-year-old St. Louis man who allegedly stole a hearse at 11:45 a.m. Friday from Sedlak Funeral Home, 615 Madison Ave., Madison, and fled in it to St. Louis, where it struck a police car.

A woman residing near the funeral home reported a man had just backed the hearse into her fence and then drove away.

Funeral home officials checked and found the vehicle had been stolen.

Unsure of the direction of travel, Madison and Venice police cars patrolled into Brooklyn and National City until a toll collector at McKinley Bridge reported that he recalled seeing an ambulance or hearse crossing the bridge at about 11:50 a.m.

St. Louis police were notified. Before that report could be relayed to squad cars, a St. Louis officer who had just stopped a car on a routine traffic check reported his squad car had just been sideswiped by a hearse on Interstate 70 east of Union Boulevard.

The driver of the hearse was taken to St. Louis City Hospital 1, where no injuries could be found and he was released to police custody.

He was booked at the District Five headquarters of the St. Louis Police Department on eight tentative charges, which were to be reviewed today before official warrants are signed.

Officers said the man in custody refused to take a breath test to determine if he was intoxicated.

St. Louis police assigned to the car that was struck were Patrolmen Robert Marba and Michael Broughton.

The officer said the hearse was using its spotlight, was going fast, and was weaving from one side of the westbound lanes to the other, narrowly missing several other cars.

Neither the red lights nor siren were in operation, the policeman said.

The hearse left the interstate at Goddell Avenue. About 100 feet north of the turnoff, it stopped for the police car it earlier had struck and was being pursued by.

Robbed in Madison

Three men, one wearing a black stocking cap, grabbed George Murphy, Rural Route One, Box 1254, Granite City, in a parking lot in the 100 block of State Street in Madison and took his wallet and coin purse, it was reported at 3 a.m. Sunday.

Murphy said he was leaning over to look his car door when the man with the stocking cap grabbed him around the neck and wrestled him to the ground.

Two other men assisted in taking his wallet and coin purse from his trouser pockets. The men then fled on foot.

1,000 at Business Women's meeting

Miss Yvonne Hirsch of Tinley Park was installed as president of the Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs (IFBPW) at the Palmer House, Chicago.

More than 1,000 delegates, representing over 10,000 BPW members in 167 Illinois clubs, attended the four-day convention which concluded this week.

Mrs. Catherine Burton, Collinsville, retiring state president, presided at the convention.

Co-chairmen of arrangements were Mrs. Dana Heinrich, Collinsville, and Miss Annette Smith, Granite City. Mrs. Hope Roberts, Reno, Nev., a past president of The National Federation of Business and Professional Women and national representative to the 1975 Illinois BPW convention, was installing officer at the Liberty Bell installation banquet.

"Dear Patrick Henry..." a poignant dramatization and mini-musical focusing upon a letter written to the patriot by the mother of a skeptical youth, was presented by Nancy St. James, St. Louis entertainer and television personality, at the closing dinner.

Miss Hirsch, a member of South Suburban BPW Club, Chicago, has served as state president-elect in 1975-76, first and second vice-president, state recording secretary and treasurer and has held several state chairmanships.

She is a systems analyst with Spiegel, Inc. and was responsible for setting up and directing a school for electronic data training.

The new state president is a member of Governor Walker's Task Force for International Women's Year and has held office in Zonta International, Brementowne Villa Management Association, National and Illinois Associations of Parliamentarians, Marian Suburban Parliamentary Unit, Double Eagle Investment Club, and Bryn Mawr Players Little Theater Group.

Also elected and installed as state officers were: Miss Fidelia Doolin, Carbondale, president-elect; Lucille Anne Schott, Chicago, first vice-president; Wilma K. Harpole, Mount Vernon, second vice-president; Colleen Ferry, Rockford, treasurer; and Annabell "Woody" Woodring, Collinsville, recording secretary.

Principal speakers addressing the four-day convention, were Dr. Margaret C. Fagin, director of Women's and Out-State Programs and associate professor of education at the University of Missouri at St. Louis; and Helen Rose Schmid, a motivation consultant and former director of Speech-Dramatics for the Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction and a graduate of Notre Dame College and St. Louis University.

Mrs. Rosemary Baseden, president of the Granite City BPW Club, was chairman of the "Stars and Stripes Awards" banquet. Table decorations were made by the local club, which served as host.

Top state award—Club of the Year—was won by Murphysboro BPW, which also captured legislation and Young Careerist awards.

Fairview-Edgemont BPW Club (Fairview Heights) won the scrapbook award for clubs under 65 and West Suburban Club, (Chicago), over 65.

Newspaper awards went to LaGrange BPW, under 65; public relations, Rockford, metro area; and Rantoul, non-metro area; finance, Lockport; membership, Johnson City, under 65, and Carrollton, over 65; with Salem taking the top award for increasing membership 200 per cent.

National Foundation awards were received by Granite City BPW, among other clubs. Edgewater, Chicago, Danville, Broadview and Cairo received program awards.

Recipients of "Horizon Awards" in the Young Careerist program, were Edwardsville, Morris, Carthage, Danville, Cairo, Murphysboro and Effingham.

Speaking at the awards dinner, Mrs. Roberts, a member of the Advisory Committee on the Rights and Responsibilities of Women for the U.S. Health, Education and Welfare, urged the conferees to "use the level of our God-given abilities. Now is the time to stop talking and implement the programs we have discussed at length."

"Double standards still exist in employment and the evaluation of working woman," Mrs. Roberts said. "For example," she continued, "a man is called aggressive, a woman is pushy; he is great on details, she is picky."

"He follows through with a job, she doesn't know when to stop, he is confident, but she is coquettish; 'he stands firm, but she is as hard as nails; he is a man of the world, but she's been around.'"

Mrs. Roberts noted there has been a 200 per cent increase in the number of working women from 1946 to 1975, and one-third of the women now employed are mothers of preschool children.

In 1975, one million divorces were granted and of the women involved a full 30 per cent became heads of households," she said.

"Despite the equal pay laws, two-thirds of the working women receive less pay than a man in a similar job capacity, yet utility rates and food costs are the same to a woman as to a man," Mrs. Roberts stressed. "We must use our abilities. As an individual, as a member of an action organization and as part of the American community, our involvement is our commitment to the future," she concluded.

Other Granite City BPW members with convention responsibilities were: Pauline Weir, convention kits; Lillie B. Marshall, program book layout; chairman; and Valerie Evenden, publicity.

Also attending from the local club were Sylvia Wright, president-elect; Lois Wetton, 1975 State Speak-Off winner; Betty Robertson, 1976 Speak-Off candidate; Barbara Hodges, Judith McCann, Barbara Wyatt, Gladys Newman, Marielore Lambert, LaVelle Stephens, Lorene Sadrakula, Pauline Weir, Edna Kohlbrecher, Anna Mae Gates and Verne Lengua.

Eagle Park groups favor lone sewer area

Contact is being made with Illinois Environmental Protection Agency officials in an effort to block the proposed Madison County Board sanitary sewer installation project unless three service areas can be combined into one. County officials also are to be contacted.

Announcement of the plans was made last week at a meeting attended by about 100 representatives of the Madison County Improvement Association.

The County Board committee coordinating the project has said the state requires three areas because not all sections are physically contiguous to each other. Some of those at last week's Eagle Park meeting said information they have received causes them to doubt that there is such a barrier to a single service area.

Petitions were circulated and a hearing was held at 5 p.m. Thursday, April 29, at the Village Hall on the temporary closings of two village taverns by Village Board President Floyd David Moss, acting as the village's liquor control commissioner.

On Moss' orders, Pontoon Beach Police closed Mary's Tavern, 4112 Pontoon Road, and Ali's Place, 4000 Kaseberg Village. Both licenses are held by Harry Ellsworth.

At Friday's hearing, Moss ordered the taverns to remain closed for seven days, during which he will issue a written decision whether he feels there are sufficient grounds for license revocation of the taverns.

The only official reason given for the suspensions was "numerous complaints," according to village officials. It is believed several complaints of noise and other problems at Mary's Tavern have been filed with the village's police department, prompting the action.

The Executive Committee of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Foundation for the cancellation of the governor's ball, scheduled for May 8, and the Foundation golf tournament scheduled for July 13, both at Sunset Hills Country Club.

James R. Thompson, Republican nominee for governor, has written Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. urging federal approval of a proposed major airport at Columbia-Waterloo. A ruling has been delayed again, until May 15.

The U.S. Council on Wage and Price Stability will investigate the price increases announced by some steel producers last week.

The Illinois State Medical Society last week said it would oppose legislation allowing police to search vehicles when they are let to die.

Gov. Dan Walker on Thursday named a "Howell for Governor" button on a reporter at Springfield. Walker lost the March governor primary to Secretary of State Michael H. H. H.

The Chicago Federation of Labor and Cong. Ralph Metcalfe have joined U.S. Senators Charles Percy and Adlai Stevenson in urging President Gerald Ford to grant a full pardon to former Gov. Dan Rostenkowski.

Robert Jones, 45, Cottage Hills, was injured in an accident on Route 112. He was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital at 2 p.m. Saturday. He suffered abrasions to his forehead and right arm, and a series of x-rays was taken.

Enlarge, speed up library services

Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett said Sunday Illinois' state library is supporting a new interstate automation program which will enlarge and speed up library services for Illinois citizens.

By virtue of his office, Howlett also is state librarian. He spoke yesterday at dedication of the new Hillside Public Library building.

"We are putting the catalogs of our five largest Illinois libraries into a computer data base of the Ohio College Library Center, Columbus," Howlett said.

"The five are the state library, Chicago Public, University of Illinois, Southern Illinois University and Northern Illinois University libraries."

"In effect, any library on the computer has instant access to the catalog, on tape, of every other library on the computer."

"It saves the time otherwise required to send a written request and wait for a response. We hope to bring computer terminals to 40 more Illinois libraries within a year."

"Eventually, we hope to have a single catalog of the whole state's library resources on tape."

Howlett said the State Library now has 1,058 Illinois libraries organized into a statewide cooperative network.

"The library resources of the whole state are within reach of every Illinois citizen, no matter where he lives or works or goes to school."

He praised the support received from state legislators, local libraries and citizens in building up Illinois' library service.

Among other advancements, residents of state correctional facilities began receiving library service through state programs, he said.

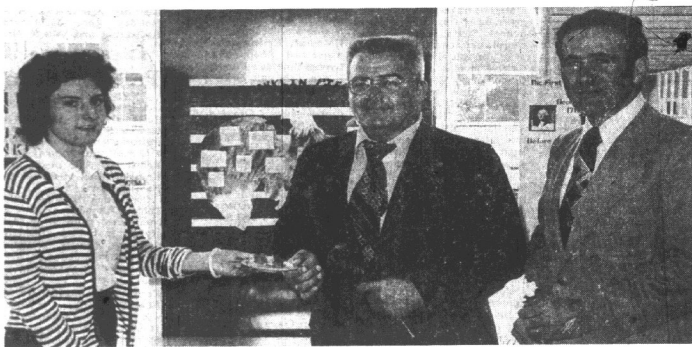

State funds were obtained to build a new facility in Chicago to serve blind and physically handicapped of the entire state with special library materials.

Future Secretaries visit firms

Members of Granite City High School Future Secretaries Association (FSA) participated in the annual FSA Day in the Office as part of the observance of "Secretaries Week." They also visited many area business places.

Pat Mueller spent the day at Sidener Supply; Nancy Bezan and Becky Balson were at Ralston Purina; Tammy Monroe, First National Bank in St. Louis; and Kathy Jones in the legal offices at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Visiting in the offices of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program at Belleville Area College were Carol Barnett, Cindy Large, Barbara Knipping and Robin Harnetiaux. Becky Dudley and Kim Barr were placed in other Belleville offices.

Hairdressers see wedge hair cut

Elite Hairdressers Affiliate 33 of the Quad-Cities will sponsor a decorated float in the community's Bicentennial parade July 3, it was decided last week. Meeting at the Round Table Restaurant, Collinsville, the group voted to enter a float representing the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologist Association (NHCA).

Mrs. Brenda Cant, affiliate president, introduced the guest artist, Mrs. Lucille Harlow of Mount Vernon, who was accompanied by Madison McBride of Dix as her model.

Mrs. Harlow, a member of the Illinois Hair Fashion Committee, demonstrated the new "wedge" hair cut, a style using a wet hair set. The speaker has taught advance cosmetology at Kaskaskia College.

Attending the meeting were Barbara Painter, Joie Lemus, Karen Dean, Rosalia Jenkins, Joanne Prewett, Helen Marsh, Rue Ann Long, Grace Tosh, Evelyn Hood, Dorothy Line, Marcella Tucker, Sheila Morgan, Debbie McCarry, Betty Smith, Marianna Zamariano, Mary Schiller and Sally Roberts.

Ladies In Action seeks members

Plans to increase membership and an auction of donated items, with the proceeds earmarked for church projects, were events highlighting last week's meeting of the Ladies In Action at Briarcliff Pentecostal Church.

Mrs. Chris Stenitzer, president, was in charge of the business session when the group agreed to spur its efforts to increase the membership roster.

Mrs. Wanda Watson and Mrs. Dorothy Lukin served as hostesses, with the latter offering the invocation prior to refreshments.

The devotional topic, "I Am a Woman," also was presented by Mrs. Lukin.

Mrs. Opal Orrell and Mrs. Omie Farless were named to the hostess committee for the May meeting.

Others present were Mesdames Phyllis Allen, Diane Gaines, Ann Hotsen, Ruby Scott, Betty Bonilla, Phyllis Taylor, Norma Newberry, Lena Beaver, Lillian Barton, Helen Canada and Maggie Glasgow.

The annual installation dinner of the Junior Bay View Reading Club took place last week at Charlie's Restaurant.

Those installed as officers for the coming year were: Sharon Loftus, president; Mrs. Mildred Jungels, vice president; and Mrs. Marquerite Lexow, secretary-treasurer.

Spring garden flowers in silver bowls and pink and green candles in silver holders graced the dinner table. Favors were handmade ceramic flowers.

The club elected to attend the Plantation Dinner Theater on the May meeting date.

Also at the dinner were Mesdames Ann Little, Clava Koerper, Marge O'Neill, Clava Taylor and Velma Neumann.

Spurlock will enroll at Tennessee college

Rick Spurlock, 6-11 Granite City North senior, signed a grant-in-aid this month with Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tenn. Athletic Director Hoyt Kirk, on hand for the signing, made the official announcement.

Spurlock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyndell Spurlock, 4716 Benning Ave., was a highly recruited high school standout under Coach Bill Ollendorf.

Commenting on the signing, Kirk said, "I'm pleased to have a young man of his caliber and size. I saw him play and I've visited in his home. I appreciate his family as well as him."

Kirk expects the big man — Spurlock is the tallest player ever signed by the school — to play a major role in the developing athletic program of the Tennessee college. "Not only is he a good athlete, but he is a good all-around student."

Spurlock made the all-star team in the Belleville East tournament, was voted "most improved" in the Ed McCauley basketball camp, was elected as having the "most school spirit" and has been a member of the Student Council in high school.

"We are pleased to have a young man with this type of background to sign with us," Kirk concluded.

Freed-Hardeman, established in 1908 as a junior college, has just completed transition to senior college status and will graduate its first baccalaureate class in May. Supported by members of the Churches of Christ, the college presently has between 1,400 and 1,500 students.

SIUC scholarship to Robin Deterding

Miss Robin Deterding, a senior at GCHS South and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don (Judy) Deterding, 2812 Idaho St., has signed a letter of intent to attend Southern Illinois University at Carbondale on a basketball scholarship to play a forward position on the Saluki team coached by Maureen Weiss.

A 5-9 player with South's Warriors, Miss Deterding averaged 22 points a game this season.

She lettered three years in the sport and also competed in tennis, volleyball and track. As a sophomore, she competed in an 880-yard run and mile relay events at the state track finals.

In 1974, Miss Deterding was runnerup in district tennis competition, and last year won the district singles championship. She competed at state in her junior and senior years.

She also is a skilled softball player.

With an ambition to major at SIU in either pre-medical or pre-dentistry, Miss Deterding said she chose the Carbondale campus "because of its women's sports programs."

She had received scholarship offers from Western Illinois University, Illinois State University, the University of Nebraska and Drake University of Iowa.

On May 13, Robin Deterding will have the distinction of being the first Granite City female athlete to be honored, along with her male counterparts, during a scholarship athletic banquet. Her academic average is 4.75 on a 5.0 scale.

Her scholarship to attend SIUC is for a one-year period, with an option to renew for three more years.

North bats hot, but Althoff tops slugfest

A fifth inning scoring effort by GCHS North Thursday at Belleville closed Althoff High's lead to two runs, but the host Crusaders went on to win 14-11.

North collected 11 hits in the contest — Larry Schleicher had three, Kevin Hayes two, and Chris Page, Jeff Hamilton, Gary Meyers and Don Walton had one each. Althoff had 16 hits and made one error to the Stealers' four.

Coach Robert Stegemier utilized the services of four pitchers — starter Greg Corey, Gary Paul and Jim Goodyear, both in the fourth inning, and Mike Germancini in the sixth.

North broke out on top with a run in the opening inning when Falloni drew a walk and Page tripped. Althoff put five runs across in the bottom of the first.

Althoff scored two in the third inning and five more in the fourth for a 12-1 lead over the Stealers, but the hot bats of North went to work in the fifth for nine runs.

Schleicher singled, Falloni and Schmidt both drew walks, Hamilton and Hayes collected basehits, and Doug Rains, Goodyear and Rick Willard all drew walks. Schleicher then doubled in three runners before stealing third. He scored later on a pass ball.

The Belleville squad scored twice in the sixth, and North added a run in the seventh when Walton singled and then scored on a throwing error by a shortstop following a ground-ball.

Burglarize tavern; seek three youths

Three youths, ages 12 to 16, are being sought in connection with a burglary early Saturday at Craycraft's Tavern, 1034 Twentieth St.

Richard Craycraft, the owner, who resides at the rear of the tavern, said he heard glass in the front door breaking about 1:30 a.m. Saturday and when he turned on the porch light to investigate, he saw three boys run from the front door.

At 4:35 a.m. Saturday, a policeman patrolling the area saw two boys running in the alley between the 2000 blocks of Missouri and Illinois avenues. He attempted to catch the boys for questioning, but lost sight of them at West 30th Street and Missouri Avenue. The officer then checked the neighborhood and found the front door of the tavern had been pried open.

Craycraft was notified and said about 21 cases of beer and about five bottles of liquor were missing. Cabinets and coolers were ransacked.

Venice acquires new truck

The Venice City Council last week went on record thanking Christ Pashoff, supervisor, and other Venice Township officials for the purchase of a $17,500, 17-yard trash truck to be used by the city.

Arthur Kettenhofen, resident engineer of the Broadway relocation project, reported that considerable work has been done but it will be several months before the project is finished.

Duane Georgeff, McKinley Bridge manager, reported that traffic is moving well due largely to the fact that during the evening rush hour a Venice policeman is on hand to direct traffic.

"The only thing really slowing traffic is when a train blocks Broadway and that always has been a problem which soon will be corrected," Georgeff said.

Two presumed drowned after fall from tow

A search for two crewmen who fell from a tow boat into the Mississippi River near Hartford was abandoned by the U. S. Coast Guard Sunday afternoon because of high winds and choppy waters.

The men, identified as Paul Gregg, 31, of Morrison, Ill., and Robert Decker, 38, an engineer of Covington, Tenn., fell from the tow boat Mary Ann about 4 a.m. Saturday. Circumstances of their disappearance were unknown, officials said.

The boat's cook said he saw the two men in the water but by the time the Coast Guard reached the scene they had disappeared. The boat was tied up at the Shell Oil Co. dock.

Motel robbed

Two robbers, one armed with a sawed-off shotgun, stole an undetermined amount of money from the Granite City Travelodge, 1200 Nineteenth St., at 3:25 a.m. Sunday.

A night clerk said there was a knock on the front door of the motel office and he opened it to admit one man. When he did, a second man stepped out from around the corner, displayed the shotgun and stated, "Have you got any money?" police were told.

The men forced the clerk to lie on the floor and ordered him to crawl into a back room. They then closed the door to the back room and took the money.

The clerk said he did not come out for a few minutes and did not see the robbers leave.

Model changeover begins at A. O. Smith plant here

One of two assembly lines producing auto frames at the A.O. Smith Corp. plant has been shut down for changeover to 1977 model production, and has been discontinued without layoff of workers at this time, it was reported Friday.

Line Two on which production has been completed for 1976 models is expected to be ready to produce frames for new model Chevrolet by June 28, a plant spokesman said.

Production of 1976 model frames continues meanwhile on Line One at the A.O. Smith plant, but that line expected to close down for the model changeover about May 28. The spokesman said "substantial layoffs" may be expected at that time pending the changeover of that line.

Resumption of work on Line One is expected about Aug. 9. The spokesman said that "We see initial 1977 model production beginning on Line Two on a one-shift basis on June 28. A second shift is projected to start the second week, July 6.

"Line One is scheduled to be released by maintenance on Aug. 9 and is planned to operate initially on a one-shift basis. This plan would have us at a three-line operational level by Aug. 9, and depending upon customer requirements, we could increase to a 3½ or 4-line operational level by late August or early September."

The shutdown of Line Two without layoffs was accomplished because of vacations and job rescheduling, the spokesman added.

Exams for rural carriers

Applications are now being accepted, and an examination will be given, to establish a register of eligibles from whom future substitute rural carrier vacancies in the Granite City Post Office will be filled.

All interested persons who meet the requirements are urged to apply. Announcements are posted at the main office, Nameoki station and the Mitchell Branch station, according to Postmaster Herbert Backs. No experience or training requirements are required in the substitute rural carrier of record examination. Total time required in the examination room is approximately 3 1/2 hours, Backs said.

Applicants must be physically qualified to perform efficiently the arduous duties of this position, he noted.

An eligible selected for appointment must have a valid driver's license and a safe driving record, and he must pass the Postal Service road test to show he can safely drive a vehicle of the type used on the job.

All substitute rural carriers of record must furnish and maintain at their own expense vehicle equipment necessary for the prompt handling of the mails, but they are given an equipment maintenance allowance based on the training mileage schedule, or a minimum allowance per day, whichever is greater.

Among midshipmen recognized for distinguished military achievements during the current academic year was Joseph A. Lanahan, a senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy F. Lanahan, 2423 Benton St., who received the Platoon Commander's Trophy as commander of the platoon scoring the highest in spring drill competition.

Arts Council members exempt from ethics statements—Scott

Attorney General William J. Scott has issued a legal opinion that state members of the Illinois Arts Council do not have to file statements of economic interest, either under constitutional provisions, or under provisions of the Illinois Governmental Ethics Act.

News reports a few years ago indicated that some citizens were declining appointments to the council rather than face the loss of privacy required by the ethics statements.

Scott, in his opinion, noted that the Arts Council was created by the General Assembly, not by the constitution, were appointed by the governor without confirmation by the Senate, and serve without compensation. However, the attorney general said, his legal opinion did not relate to the authority of the governor to require members of the Arts Council to file "ethics statements."

Scott's opinion was requested by Bruce Sagan, chairman of the Illinois Arts Council.

Bicentennial events at campus this week

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is celebrating the week of May 3-9 as Bicentennial Week.

Annette Mulvaney Graebe, director of the University Information Center and chairman of the University Bicentennial Committee, says the week will climax a year-long celebration of more than 100 Bicentennial-related activities on the university campus.

Every university unit, including all the academic areas, students and staff, have taken part in the year's celebration, Mrs. Graebe said.

"The year has been a real challenge to coordinate such an extensive university commemorative celebration. The Bicentennial committee has been overwhelmed by the cooperative spirit and enthusiasm received from the university family. We hope that the community surrounding the campus will join us for the week's festival."

Delbert Black, Midwest representative to the SUE School of Dental Medicine will have on display all week a multimedia presentation and exhibit, "Dentistry: Then, Now, and Here."

A special American Folklore Archive will be available for hours all week, by appointment only. John Oldani of the American studies program will be available to demonstrate and explain more than 60,000 folklore items donated to the archive by citizens.

Officially opening the week's Bicentennial activities will be a concert at 8:15 tonight by the Old Guys Jazz Band in the Meridian Ballroom of the University Center. The SUE Concert Chorus and other guest artists will share billing with the Old Guys. Tickets to the event are $2.50 and may be purchased at the door.

As part of the nation's Bicentennial Horizons program, the SUE department of art and design has commissioned Richard Hunt, John David Moore, and John Henry, internationally known Illinois artists and sculptors, to create three sculptures encompassing the theme, "200 Years of Expanding Horizons."

The sculptures, although finished works of art in themselves, will serve as models for large-scale outdoor sculpture endeavors proposed for the SUE campus.

The sculptures will be formally unveiled at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow in Goshen Lounge of the University Center. The sculpture project has been partially funded by the Illinois Bicentennial Commission.

A lecture, "Compliant Rebellion: The American Avant-Garde as Social Narcotic," by John Adkins Richardson, will be presented in Lovejoy Library auditorium at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday. Richardson art and design at SUE.

A Bicentennial multimedia presentation, "American Folklore: A Culture Reflection," is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Meridian Ballroom of the University Center. John Oldani will be the speaker.

A slide-lecture presentation, "Louis H. Sullivan—American Architectural Pioneer," will be featured in the Mississippi Illinois Room of the University Center Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. John Celuch will be the speaker.

Dedicate county nature trail entrance in rain

Despite inclement weather during the past week, about 75 persons attended the dedication of the local entrance to the Meridian County Bicycle and Nature Trail on Lake Drive in Pontoon Beach.

Five Granite City garden clubs donated the entrance sign and the preliminary landscaping work. The clubs are the Thorngate Garden Club, Terrace Garden Club, Gardenaires, Garden Study Club, and Cloverview Garden Club. Mrs. Charles Kohl, chairman of the clubs' joint steering committee, made the presentation of the sign, which was accepted by Nelson Hagnauer, Madison County Board chairman, and Louis Whittle, chairman of the board's Parks and Recreation Committee.

The Rev. Ellis B. Dugger, pastor of Trinity United Methodist Church, gave the invocation and benediction, and Boy Scouts from Troops 5, 11 and 13 presented the colors.

Mrs. Fred Orr, Mrs. Thomas King and Charles Svoboda Jr. of the Boy Scouts' Uniwah District also spoke briefly at the dedication.

Lovejoy Library banquet

An evening of "humor, pathos, superstition, legend, song and apple pie," will be presented by two professors at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville during the Friends of Lovejoy Library biennial banquet and Bicentennial program. The banquet is Friday, May 14, at 6:30 p.m. in the Mississippi Illinois Rooms of the SUE University Center.

SUE Associate Professors John L. Oldani and Michael J. Smith will present the program, "The American Experience in Folklore and Song: 200 Years." According to Sheila Stimson, executive secretary of the Friends of Lovejoy Library at SUE, the professors will coordinate their portions of the show to present a picture of great American Folklore, legends and songs.

Oldani is director of the American Studies program and coordinator of the Folklore Archive at SUE. A co-winner of the Great Teacher Award in 1974, Oldani has amassed a folklore archive of some 60,000 texts of folklore material on index cards, plus over 100 artifacts, including such items as water-witching wands, quilts, laces and carvings.

Smith, an associate professor of art and design, has had his works exhibited widely and has been the winner of numerous prizes at art shows and museums in the Midwest, New York and Washington. His work is represented in the permanent collections of the William Rockhill Nelson Gallery of Art in Kansas City, Mo., the University of Nebraska and Indiana University.

American folk songs, along with the banjo, the only true native instrument of the United States, have occupied Smith's interest for years, according to Mrs. Stimson.

Mrs. Stimson said that results of the biennial election of officers and board members for the Friends of Lovejoy Library will be announced that evening. She added that special guests for the evening will be SUE Acting President and Mrs. Andrew J. Kochman and Acting Vice-President for Business Affairs and Mrs. James F. Metcalf.

Reservations for the $5.50 per person tickets may be made by calling the Friends Office at 692-2711 or by writing to the Friends of Lovejoy Library, Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville, 62026. Dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. and guests are asked to be present by 6:20 p.m.

Midwest Steel expansion to begin but may not be completed rapidly

Conflicting trends are posing problems for National Steel Corp., Chairman George A. Stinson reported to stockholders at the company's annual meeting in Pittsburgh last week. The firm acquired Granite City Steel five years ago.

Sales are up 13.6 per cent for the first quarter of 1976 but profit for the same period is down from $1.28 a share to 72 cents.

Business is "healthy" and the firm has been operating all its blast furnaces since March 1, Stinson noted.

A continuing problem cited is a cost upturn that has not been matched by the price level for National Steel's and other steel manufacturers' products, the chairman said.

"We are well into a strong steel market, and are bearing some costs which have not been compensated for 21 months," he related.

The most depressing aspect, Stinson said, is the impact the cost-price imbalance will have on expansion of primary steel-producing capacity.

"We are completing a one-million-ton 'round-out' expansion program right now," he said, "and we have completed the engineering for a two-million ton program at our Midwest Steel Division at Portage, Ind.

"We know the domestic steel market will need that capacity by the time we can get it built and operating. Today's vigorous steel market makes that clear. But today's profit levels make it more difficult to carry out that program on the most expeditious timetable."

"When we announced the Midwest expansion 14 months ago, I made this comment: 'Financing for the new mill will come primarily from internally generated funds, supplemented by borrowing from outside sources. This program, thus, is dependent, financially, on our ability to realize adequate returns from our operations.'

"Should the steel industry be forced to revert to the painfully low margins of 1970-71 for any prolonged period... the desirability of completing the total program would have to be reassessed."

"We have not changed our belief that the Midwest expansion is economical and necessary," Stinson said. "We plan to begin construction this year. But we will not be able to meet the clear needs for additional steel in 1980 if we continue to be unable to recover in 1976 the cost increases of 1974."

TAKE PURSE, CASH

John Vaughn, 1644 Maple St., reported last week that her purse was stolen from her car, parked in the K-Mart lot, during the weekend. The purse contained two billfolds, $181 cash, a $50 wristwatch, medicine, a bible and personal papers.

"We have not changed our belief that the Midwest expansion is economical and necessary," Stinson said. "We plan to begin construction this year. But we will not be able to meet the clear needs for additional steel in 1980 if we continue to be unable to recover in 1976 the cost increases of 1974."

Indian chief to visit GC

Chief White Eagle, a full blooded Iroquois Indian who has appeared in movies and television with such stars as John Wayne, Lorne Green and Robert Mitchum, will visit Granite City Tuesday and Wednesday.

The widely recognized Indian chief will greet youngsters and adults at Brunswick Tri-Mor Bowl, 3701 Nameoki Road, at 4 p.m. on both days.

Now a member of Brunswick Corp. advisory staff, Chief White Eagle plans to call at several Granite City schools, including St. Margaret Mary, St. Elizabeth and Sacred Heart parochial schools.

Arrangements also are being completed for him to visit local public schools, according to Tony Sodi, manager of Brunswick Tri-Mor Bowl.

Children confined in the pediatric ward at St. Elizabeth Hospital also will have an opportunity to see a "real live Indian" when he visits there at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Educated at Oxford University in England and McGill University in Montreal, Canada, Chief White Eagle formerly lived at the Grand River reservation in Canada.

He has an inexhaustible supply of old Indian legends, can teach children the Indian sign language and expose them to the customs and mysterious rites of the Indian people.

Chief White Eagle currently stars as an Indian chief in the ABC production series, "The Americans." He has appeared on the "Wagon Train" television series and in such movies as "Fort Apache," "Northwest Passage" and "She Wore a Yellow Ribbon." He was twice nominated for an Emmy Award.

Considered one of the nation's top bowling instructors, Chief White Eagle has instructed thousands of children in bowling techniques and has started many young bowlers on the "high scoring ten pin trail," according to Sodi.

A weekly program on Chicago television has gained him a wide audience in the Midwestern states, Sodi said.

The public is invited to meet Chief White Eagle at 4 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday at Brunswick Tri-Mor Bowl.

Three hurt at 24th-Cleveland

A motorist and his two passengers sustained injuries in a collision with another auto at 2:40 p.m. Wednesday at 24th Street and Cleveland Boulevard.

Injured were Anthony Biecker, 2144 Adams St., driver, and Richard Anthony, 16, of 2144 Adams, and Lee Forsberg, 16, of 2242 Washington Ave., passengers. Driver of the second auto, Doris Young, 2424 Benton St., was not reported injured.

The high court declared that when cities with co-extensive boundaries annex properties those properties automatically become a part of the co-extensive township.

The Press-Record has learned that the basis for Filcock's motion to dismiss the suit was the Illinois Supreme Court decision on the Sangamon County case, overturning the lower court ruling.

He said he accelerated to get away from the trailer and quickly passed the truck. He then noticed the train at the crossing and skidded about 55 feet before striking the side of the switch engine.

Milosovich and a passenger in his car went to St. Elizabeth Hospital for treatment. Milosovich was treated for head injuries and was released after x-rays were taken.

The passenger, William Owens, 28, of 4944 Redwood Lane, Mitchell, suffered injuries to his left shoulder, right wrist and the toes of his right foot. He declined to be admitted.

Police said Dean Oliver, 2108 Bryan Ave., reported the theft of a battery from his auto at 9:35 p.m. Wednesday. Three men reportedly got into a white over 1963 Chevy with mag wheels and no license plates.

A witness later alerted police that a similar vehicle was parked and unoccupied in the 2700 block of Denver. Two youths, 18 and 16, with Jones are being questioned by detectives.

Seek clarification on town boundary

Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron is expected to be asked today to study whether some residents of areas recently annexed into Granite City are mistakenly listed on the books of the Madison County Clerk as voters in Nameoki Township.

County Clerk Evelyn Bowles told the Press-Record that residents of some areas annexed to Granite City since 1971 remain on her rolls as voters in Nameoki Township, even though they pay their taxes to Granite City and Granite City Township.

She said the confusion comes over a Sangamon County Court ruling which held that when a co-extensive city — which has identical city and township boundaries — annexes property, that property does not automatically become a part of the annexing city's township.

The Sangamon County decision indicated elections are required in each of the two townships involved before township lines can be changed. But that ruling later was overturned by the Illinois Supreme Court.

Miss Bowles said that her office, on the basis of legal advice, has been using the Sangamon decision to classify residents of certain areas as residents of Granite City, the city, but also as residents of Nameoki Township.

A suit was filed July 2, 1975, by Nameoki Township Supervisor Louis Whitsett challenging "automatic takeover" of property by Granite City Township in instances where a site was annexed by the City of Granite City.

That suit cited the Sangamon County decision as a basis for the contention that township taxes paid in areas annexed from Nameoki Township since 1971 belong to Nameoki Township.

The Whitsett suit later was dismissed by Associate Judge Robert Francis on a motion to dismiss, filed by Granite City Attorney George Filcock. The order released to Granite City Township all of the taxes which had been held in escrow since the suit was filed.

The Press-Record has learned that the basis for Filcock's motion to dismiss the suit was the Illinois Supreme Court decision on the Sangamon County case, overturning the lower court ruling.

Harold Davis renamed to Long Lake fire district

The Nameoki Town Board of Auditors has reappointed Harold Davis to the Long Lake Fire Protection District Board of Trustees and Lawrence Robinson as a trustee to the State Park Place Street Light District, for terms of three years each.

It was noted a third trustee position has been vacated and a new appointment will be necessary. That vacancy was created when Robert Lipscomb moved out of the Miracle Manor-Belleme Place Street Light District.

Nameoki Town Board members indicated they wished to study the applications further before filling Lipscomb's position. A letter from the township's highway department attorney, Nick D. Vasiloff, to Mayor Mike Sasyk of Madison, was read, requesting a figure indicating what Madison feels would be fair compensation to take over the maintenance of Farish Street. The city and township have been unable to agree for several years who is responsible for maintaining the street. The result was the street was not maintained, leading to complaints from the residents and from motorists who use the street.

In November of last year, Nameoki Township Highway Commissioner Albert Bell repaired the street on a "one time-only" basis, and requested a figure from Sasyk that Madison would require to take over the street.

Objections to the township's tax levy from several railroads were read and were referred to the town board's attorney, H. Carl Rung Jr., to defend. Bills ordered paid included $5,017 from the town fund, $717 from the revenue sharing fund, $10,045 from the road and bridge fund, $1,142 from the special hard road fund and $2,208 from general assistance.

The two are advanced speech students at Granite City High School North and are coached by Dr. Goni Michaeloff, speech department chairman. The two students are sponsored by the Granite City Optimist club.

R. Dron Electrical Co. of Granite City was the low bidder to furnish and erect traffic control signals at Seminary Street and Illinois 111 in Alton. The firm bid $30,490 against an estimated cost of $31,500.

Charles E. Mahoney Co. of Belleville for 1.19 miles of concrete pavement on Bethalto Expressway from Old Bethalto Road to Prairie Street in Bethalto. Estimated cost was $550,000.

A bid of $1,192,494 was made by Hoeffken Bros., Inc. of Belleville for 2.9 miles of concrete pavement from Illinois 111 easterly, including a railroad grade separation structure. Estimated cost of the project was $1,526,000.

Total amount of low bids received by the DOT on all projects was $78,315,200.

Letter From Springfield

By Rep. Everett G. Steele

In the past, many women have had difficulty in obtaining credit after a divorce, or in obtaining credit in their own name.

Under new legislation, no person in Illinois may be denied a credit card solely on account of sex or marital status. If refused, a credit card applicant can request the reason for his or her rejection, and the card issuer must provide information as to the reason for the credit card refusal.

Recent "fairness in lending" provisions passed in Springfield also expand the borrowing capacities of women in securing a home mortgage or other needed financing.

This legislation provides that the regular and dependable income of each person who will be obligated for payment of debt must be considered, and that the terms of credit shall not be varied or changed by the childbearing capacity of an applicant.

Recent legislation provides that persons over 65 years of age, as well as those persons blind or disabled, shall not be charged tent or trailer camping fees in Illinois state parks.

Boats 16 feet or over must now have one life preserver for each person on board, plus one throwable flotation device.

It is unlawful for children under 12 years of age to operate boats with motors over 10 horsepower. They may, however, operate boats with

City Council commends Kelly

Robert Kelly, city building inspector for the past three years until his resignation became effective Friday, was presented a plaque last week by Mayor Paul Schuler and City Council members in recognition of his services in the Inspection Department.

After the plaque was presented, Alderman Gerald Parmley spoke in behalf of the council, telling Kelly that his program of inspection work had established new procedures that will be followed for successful operation of that office. Kelly has resigned to begin operation of a cattle ranch in Missouri. He was appointed building inspector in June 1973 by Mayor Schuler.

lessor horsepower, if supervised by an adult (over 18 years old).

New legislation provides that students in grades 8 through 12 shall be taught and required to study courses which include instruction in the area of consumer education, and an understanding of the roles of business and government in achieving the goals of the free enterprise system.

On spacious, tree shaded grounds in Quincy, a retirement home is state-maintained to serve war veterans of Illinois. Its population ranges from 800 to 900 persons.

Veterans who have had at least 90 days of wartime service and an honorable discharge are eligible for admission.

A wife who makes application with her husband is eligible for admission if she has been married to the veteran for at least five years and is unable to earn a livelihood.

Rabies control clinics planned

The Nameki Township and Pontoon Beach annual rabies control clinics will be conducted at the Township Hall on May 11 from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. and at the Long Lake Fire Hall, May 12 from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Dr. Leland Holt, a Granite City veterinarian, will administer the rabies vaccination to dogs and cats for a $4 fee, which is $1 cheaper than an office visit would be, according to Louis Whitsell, township supervisor.

Everyone is urged to bring their animals in to be vaccinated before the rabies season starts, Whitsell said.

Motorcyclist hurt

Donald Mangiaracino, 1244 Oriole St., Venice, was injured when he was forced to drop his motorcycle to avoid a car which pulled out in front of him at 21st Street and Madison Avenue at 4:20 p.m. Thursday.

He said he was southbound on Madison Avenue when a gray Chevrolet pulled out in front of him. After he dropped the motorcycle, it skidded about 15 feet before stopping. The car, which was not touched, then left the scene.

An ambulance was called for Mangiaracino, but he declined to be taken to the hospital.

Board of River Festival elects Cassens, Solomon

Albert Cassens of Edwardsville was elected president of Mississippi River Festival, Inc., at a board of directors meeting last week in St. Louis. He will complete the term of John S. Rendleman, who died March 4.

Directors also elected Russell C. Solomon Jr. of Edwardsville to complete the term of Cassens as secretary.

Other officers include: Richard Shomaker of St. Louis, chairman of the board; Attorney Randall Robertson, Granite City, executive vice-president; Andrew J. Kochman, acting president of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, and C. E. Townsend of Granite City and Michael Witunski of St. Louis, vice-presidents; Ernest A. Karandjef, Granite City, treasurer; and Lyle Ward, Glen Carbon, managing director.

Karandjef is president of the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank and the American National Bank of Granite City. Townsend is the retired publisher of the Press-Record. In other action, the MRF board approved a revised corporation budget which anticipates $824,110 in income and $823,710 in expenses, with a season surplus of $400.

A committee was appointed to study the feasibility of a more permanent performance facility at the MRF site on the university campus. Ward pointed out that the annual cost of raising and lowering the tent, plus other operational costs, as well as tent replacement costs, approximate $150,000 annually. He said a Teflon-coated fiberglass structure with nearly twice the present seating capacity of 1,900 is being considered.

Directors heard reports from Nicholas P. Veeder of St. Louis, chairman of the Friends of the Festival; Mrs. Jane Saghir of Clayton; and Mrs. Sue Hopler of Edwardsville, co-chairmen of Coupon Book Sales; and Mrs. Vicky Holt, MRF concert manager, who indicated that grants for MRF educational and fine arts programs are expected to be approximately the same as last year.

Friends of the Festival have secured $15,375 toward a goal of $50,000, and coupon book sales are approximately $2,000 behind sales at this time last year.

The eighth annual MRF season will open June 23 with the Preservation Hall Jazz Band and continue for nine weeks, through Aug. 21, with an additional concert by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra on Sept. 15. The season of fine arts and contemporary programming includes symphonic music, dance programs, chamber music films, arts and crafts, as well as top folk, rock, jazz and television entertainers. Most of the more than 50 events are presented "under the stars" at the natural amphitheater on the SIUE campus.

Mrs. Leona Corbey, 75, dies

Mrs. Leona (Werth) Corbey, 75, of 2400 Sheridan Ave., died at 2 p.m. Thursday at St. Elizabeth Hospital. She had been ill for many years and was hospitalized five weeks. Born and reared in Granite City, Mrs. Corbey had lived here her entire life.

She was a member of St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ.

Survivors include her husband, Ralph Corbey; two daughters, Mrs. Harry (Jean Marie) Edwards of Ste. Genevieve, Mo., and Mrs.

Vernon (Ruth Helen) Morris of Granite City; two brothers, Carl and Herbert Werth, both of Granite City; one sister, Mrs. Marie Whittle of Granite City; five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Funeral services were held Saturday. Details are given in the obituary column.

Comment and analysis

May 3, 1976

Praiseworthy financial studies by Howlett and Thompson

Guest commentary by Maurice W. Scott, executive vice president, Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois — Although it may appear to the public that the Illinois General Assembly is not doing much at this time, it must be remembered that heavy committee work must take place prior to floor action, and committees in both the Senate and House are doing thorough work.

We commend the Appropriation Committee in both houses for the manner in which they are analyzing and handling spending bills before they come to the floor. These committees have been meeting daily and spending long hours questioning department and agency heads on their spending measures.

The two candidates for governor, Democrat Michael J. Howlett and Republican James R. Thompson, have each offered a plan to create a nonpartisan committee of experts to study Illinois' financial needs and resources, and to aid the transition from a retiring governor to a newly-elected governor (the period from November to January).

Both men deserve credit for such proposals because, as we have been saying, the next governor will be the day of his inauguration with a knotty budget problem: "How can a state tax increase be avoided?"

We hope that these two committees will work together, often meet together, and keep the welfare of the taxpayer foremost in mind.

The Senate passed a measure sponsored by Senator Harber Hall that prohibits the legislators from collecting their salaries in advance. It would require that they collect their salaries on a monthly basis. This is the manner in which to accomplish the desired result — not by a Constitutional amendment. If the constituents are vocal enough on an issue, the lawmakers will respond.

A bill that will make the state aid formula reward local effort immediately was introduced in the House. The legislation, sponsored by Rep. Doug Kane, advances by two years the distribution of state matching money to school districts that pass tax increases by referendum. If a school district passes a referendum by July 1, it would begin to receive increased state aid in September of the same year.

A thorny problem has occurred in a few high-ratio assessment counties where internal equalization by boards of review has reduced the level of assessment in a township that was previously higher than the county average. The taxing districts in such a township now have valuations lower than they did in 1974, even though the county aggregate assessment is equivalent to or greater than the 1974 assessment.

When House Bill 990 was passed in 1975, it was the legislative intent, and also the intent of many witnesses, that no taxing district could have a county value less than its 1974 assessed valuation during the transition period. We had hoped the Department of Local Government Affairs could clarify this in a directive to county clerks.

Corrective amendments are being considered. But at this date, when many counties are about to complete tax extension work, would the measures be enacted in time to aid taxing districts so affected in 1976?

New tax ratio could hurt economy, worsen tax load for all

Elimination of the present corporate personal income tax ratio in this state continues to be discussed by the General Assembly. Following are comments by Jack W. Roadman, secretary, Illinois Manufacturers' Association.

Proposals to increase corporate income taxes by changing the current 8 to 5 ratio of corporate to personal income tax rates are an excellent example of the type of "soak the corporations" attitude that Illinois can no longer afford.

According to figures from the U.S. Commerce Department, U.S. Labor Department and Illinois Department of Labor, Illinois has lost jobs faster than any other state since 1967. State figures are the worst, showing a net loss of 102,000 manufacturing jobs. We went on.

Why is Illinois losing plants, and manufacturing jobs faster than the national average? The answer is simple.

Despite the many good things that Illinois has going for it — such as a diversified economy, access to a great market, raw materials and suppliers of all kinds, good transportation and communications, access to the sea, skilled labor supply, and adequate energy supplies — other states, particularly Southern states and a few aggressive Midwestern states, are providing a better business climate.

Many factors influencing the Illinois business climate are negative. Generally high wage rates sometimes coupled with restrictive work rules, high combined state and local taxes, soaring welfare costs, a costly and demanding pollution control system, and other problems. And the recent huge increases in employer's unemployment compensation and worker's compensation costs place Illinois at a competitive disadvantage.

The 8 to 5 ratio is removed, it will be a signal to industry that an increase in tax burden is imminent, and will constitute another substantial incentive to relocate or expand elsewhere.

States like Texas with the best business climate have lower unemployment rates than Illinois and are rapidly gaining thousands of jobs.

Legislators can best represent their constituents by assuring an economic and governmental environment in which industry can thrive and jobs be created and protected. They should reject this short-sighted proposal, which would inevitably lead to higher corporate taxes and drive industry out of Illinois.

China could become super power

To the Editor:

I was part of the House Armed Services Committee group returning from a seven-day visit to the People's Republic of China.

No one, of course, can speak with any real authority about the People's Republic of China on the basis of a single week's visit — even one as intensive and varied as ours was.

We conferred, for example, with a number of top Chinese officials, including Vice Premier Chen Chao-chiao and Foreign Minister Chao Kuang-hua.

And we were the first American group ever to visit a Red Army installation and tour the Manchurian industrial port of Taitien (Dairen).

But initial exposure to the People's Republic of China is a truly eye-opening experience and we believe the following key points deserve to be reported promptly to the American people.

1. Chinese leaders all stress the current Soviet military threat both to themselves and to the West. Yet they are emphatically not interested in any more formal defensive association with the United States than now exists in the Shanghai Communiqué.
2. "You go your way and we'll go ours" sums up their attitude. They expressed no interest at all in acquiring U.S. weapons or military technology, preferring instead to rely on "self-dependence and self-reliance."
3. Chinese preparations for conducting their own attack are most impressive. A massive network of underground tunnels — for counterattack as well as survival — exists in many cities.
4. Ever China's remarkably well-organized and disciplined children are being taught serious marksmanship skills as early as age eight.
5. Our group was repeatedly assured that recent changes in the People's Republic of China will not entail any change in China's foreign policy or its relationship with the United States.

6. Contrary to some impressions, the Chinese seem to use to have forged a state with one of the highest levels of organization and discipline in modern times, compared with the United States. This is not surprising, given the high level of technical and productive capability.

7. We believe the American people should recognize that, if these trends continue, China could in time become a super power.

8. On the basis of this experience, we believe the Chinese people are genuinely interested in and friendly to the United States.

9. Accordingly, we believe that a continuation of our current policy of expanded relations and exchanges with the People's Republic of China is decidedly in the national interest.

MELVIN PRICE, Congressman, House Armed Services Committee

Pontoon will survive without Playboy

To the Editor:

In response to a letter in the Monday, April 19, Forum I would like to say this:

I fail to see why an ordinance passed in Ponton Beach should be so upsetting to someone who lives in Granite City.

I'm glad we have a mayor and village board who are aware of what is decent and what isn't. As for there being good interviews, etc., in Playboy, there are good articles in some other

More fulltime lawmakers

SPRINGFIELD — There was a decided new look to the Illinois legislature as it convened to begin the spring-summer session of 1976.

Physically, change was focused in the Senate.

The senators were back at the old stand after nine months in cramped quarters in a chamber in the adjacent building.

They found the refurbished Capitol quarters refreshingly bright and cheery compared to the old dim, lofty, arched chamber that had affected the quiet dignity, slow pace and generally austere mood of the Senate over the years.

The $2,240,000 remodeling project has not in itself transformed the Senate into a twin of the larger — 127 member House, which traditionally has been far more livelier than the more conservative Senate.

But the lightly-tinted paneling and furniture, the less ornate but brighter ceiling and improved lighting do reflect an era of change not only in the Senate but in the legislature as a whole.

Despite some sincere and strong efforts to turn back the clock and return to biennial sessions, the legislature continues to move and more closely resemble the national Congress as a body that in session a good part of the time year in and year out.

It is likely to remain so. Indeed, more and more legislators are making law-making a fulltime job. The pay has climbed to $20,000 a year, an amount not likely to impress a lawyer, doctor, businessman or insurance man, but still attractive to a government employee, a school teacher or professional politician.

The handbook for the current Assembly lists 61 members as fulltime representatives. In 1977 only six members were listed as such and in 1981 — 15 years ago — the total of fulltime legislators was only four. The very designation at that time was a cause for Statehouse snickering, the legislators so designated held in low esteem.

The trend toward fulltime lawmakers is less pronounced in the Senate, where the traditional term is four years, compared to two years in the House.

But even here the trend is apparent. Nine senators now list themselves as fulltime members, a number that has increased from three in 1961 and in 1977 there were none.

It is significant, too, that the number and types of occupations represented in the legislative membership has diminished dramatically in recent years.

As a total of 66 occupations were listed in the handbook summary for House members. This number only nine occupations were listed.

In addition to the 66 listed occupations, the others are lawyers, 14, insurance and real estate, 14, teacher or farmer, 11, city employee, 5, management, 4, county employee, 3, pharmacist, 3, "others" 21.

Compare this to the 1961 listing, which included such varied occupations as automobile dealer, contractor, publisher,

Thompson tough test for Howlett

By KEN WATSON

SPRINGFIELD — Behind the scenes there is underway a quiet and agonizing reappraisal of the campaign strategy of Democratic gubernatorial nominee Michael J. Howlett.

For the time being the secretary of state will stick to the old type of campaign which brought him victory over incumbent Gov. Dan Walker in the March primary by approximately 115,000 votes.

But before long some major decisions and changes will have to be made. Otherwise Howlett will lose the November election to Republican nominee James R. Thompson.

This is the early bird comes and the Statehouse dome and it is shared privately, if not publicly, by Democrats along with Republicans.

It is a complete turnaround from a year ago when Democrats were speaking confidently of defeating the Republican challenger as easily in 1976 as they had in 1974 and most Republicans, privately at least, were in agreement.

Today, however, the only Democrat regarded as a clear favorite over his Republican opponent is Treasurer Alan J. Dixon. But even he could have trouble in the secretary of state race against Republican nominee William C. Harris.

There is a growing feeling that Howlett, somehow, must make a completely new start in his campaign for governor.

His personal popularity, once so high when he entered the gubernatorial picture last winter, is now regarded as having dipped to the lowest level since he first entered the statewide political arena as a candidate for state treasurer in 1968.

The big challenge is for Howlett to regain the image of the "old Howlett" which flourished prior to his dropping out of the primary.

To do that he must deal effectively with two matters which he badly needs to fight with Walker. One is his payroll status with Sun Steel Corp. while holding state office, and the other is his income tax reporting of $118,000 in campaign contributions as income on his 1974 tax return.

Everything considered, Howlett faces a definitely uphill campaign. In the primary Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's organization performed brilliantly for him and it is unlikely that it can do much better in November.

Howlett also did comparatively well in the suburban area of Cook County and in the popular suburban edge of the Republican in the fall, but Howlett can be expected to do as well there as any other state candidate for governor.

His big problem is downtown Chicago, which holds the key to gubernatorial elections.

Howlett has made himself unpopular in the city in his 15 years in public office and has been regarded as having a high popularity there, even in strongly Republican areas.

Therefore it was somewhat surprising that he did so poorly against Walker in some of the largest counties.

Winnebago County (Rockford) went more than 75 percent for Walker. Adams County (Quincy) voted for Walker by about 60 percent and Peoria by about 60 percent.

It is possible that Howlett's downstate popularity has been overestimated over the years, especially in terms of having it translated into votes.

In his state-wide campaign, Howlett has carried downstate only once. That was in the Democratic presidential landslide year of 1964, when Howlett in winning election to a second term as auditor, carried downstate over Republican John Kirby of Sangamon County by 1,133,615 to 1,066,303, a plurality of 67,312 votes.

Most Walker county chairmen are beaten

By BOB ESTILL

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Dan Walker, who has few supporters among the Democratic county chairmen, emerged with even fewer after the election of county chairmen.

Walker employs or supports, who either held chairmanship or sought them, generally were clobbered when the county central committees met to re-elect candidates.

Incumbent chairmen who had backed Walker over Secy. of State Michael Howlett were re-elected in only four of at least a dozen counties where there was an immediate re-election.

Walker currently is the only county chairman involved. In the other eight counties, the Walker candidate either was not a county chairman who had supported Walker didn't seek re-election.

Re-elected were Christian County Chairman C.F. Bertinetti of Taylorville, Scott County Chairman William Weekhouse of Winchester, Edgar County Chairman Clayton Quinn of Paris and Winnebago County Chairman William C. Harris of Rockford. Bertinetti, Brookhouse and Quinn are employees of the governor, and Harris is a Walker appointee to the Illinois Toll Highway Authority.

Among the Walker chairmen who didn't seek re-election were Montgomery County Chairman Charles Friesland of Nokemia, Macoupin County Chairman William Mills of Shipman, Madison County Chairman Ed Akin of Mason City and Johnson County Chairman James Barry Eastman of Greville. All held jobs under election.

Not only were Walker chairmen defeated, attempts by Walker supporters to unseat incumbents were turned back.

Will County Chairman George A. Hardesty of Lockport lost John Houlihan, a former Will County chairman and administrator of the Illinois Veterans Commission under Walker. In Lake County, incumbent chairman "Bub" Sturm of Highland Park defeated Rep. John Matlewich of Waukegan, one of Walker's most consistent supporters in the legislature.

Walker consistently has pushed around the county chairmen. He began his administration by declaring county chairmen couldn't vote in his administration and keep their party paid. He later broke his own rule to hire county chairmen loyal to him. + + +

They may have to change the name of the Illinois Republican County Chairmen's Association.

Women steadily are increasing their representation, and they gained at least one new chairmanship in the recent election. Mary Alice Erickson was elected Peoria County chairman under unusual circumstances. She was defeated in a bid for precinct committee, but the winning candidate resigned, and she was appointed to the same night she was elected chairman.

She joins three other Republican "chairmen" who were re-elected: Mrs. Mary Jane Jones of Mason City, Macon County; Emma Joyce Mason of Athens, Menard County; and Jean Arndt of Moline, Rock Island County.

Driving along Illinois 121... you'll also run into 120. But what if you weren't to run into Hopewell? What if the village of Hopewell suddenly came to be — the 120 citizens wanted?

The question is raised by Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott. He notes that the number of people who, in National Security Council's preliminary reports, were killed in Hopewell, Ill., in 1975: the equivalent of one small Illinois town, wiped out.

There are other things to remember:

2. Always ride in single file when riding with other bicyclists.
3. Don't carry passengers, unless the passenger is a small child for whom a proper bike seat has been installed. This seat should have a seat belt or lap restraint and, if it fits over a fender, it should have sturdy shields to protect the child's legs and feet from spokes.
4. If you need to carry items with you while you bike, you should have a front or rear carrier installed.
5. Wear light colored clothing when riding at night.
6. Use guard clips on trouser cuffs.
7. Use official bike paths whenever possible.
8. Always be alert for pedestrians and for sudden moves by drivers and other cyclists around you.
9. In a passing lane of cars, be alert. A motorist may suddenly open his car door on the street side. This could cause you to collide with the door, or force you to swerve into the path of other traffic.
10. Watch for drivers making right turns. The driver may not have seen you and may turn in front of you.

refers only to human-powered pedal cycles.

The new law requires that any bicycle must have:

1. Brakes good enough to stop the bike on a dry, level, clear pavement.
2. A horn or bell which can be heard up to 1,000 feet away. Sirens or whistles are not allowed.
3. For riding at night — a. A headlamp which will cast a white light visible for at least 500 feet. An average city block is about 200 feet long, so the lamp should be clearly seen for more than a block and one-half.
4. A clear red reflector on the front of the bicycle visible in front.
5. A red reflector mounted on the rear of the bicycle and clearly visible in the rear.

If the bicycle was purchased after July 1, 1975, additional safety devices are required by law, including mud reflectors and side reflectors.

In Illinois, each bicyclist must obey all traffic laws and traffic regulations, including all traffic control signals, traffic signs and pavement markings. A person "driving" a bicycle must, therefore, observe the same traffic laws as a person driving a car or other motor vehicle.

If he doesn't, he can be stopped by a law officer just like a motorist who is disobeying traffic law. Also, some cities and towns have special bicycling regulations.

Here are other things to remember:

Telephones

and email businesses. Olson said the entire telephone industry is behind pending Congressional legislation to determine what kind of telecommunications policy and service the American people want, and at what price.

He referred to the Consumer Communications Reform Act of 1976, newly introduced by Illinois Congressman George E. Shipley (Democrat) and Edward J. Derwinski (Republican) and 27 other members of both houses of Congress.

Olson compared the present telecommunications scene to the beginnings of the energy crisis in the 1950s, when early warnings were "largely unheard, unread, ignored or disbelieved until the crisis was upon us."

According to Olson, the telecommunications crisis began in the late 1960s when the FCC started to introduce what it sees as "competition" to provide communications lines to businesses between cities, and to provide telephones, switchboards, answering devices and other equipment in homes and offices.

"What the FCC has termed 'competition' has turned out to be simply an arbitrary allocation of markets," Olson said, "with would-be competitors protected by regulatory decisions that prohibit or delay the telephone companies from competing on equal terms."

"While telephone companies continue to be tightly regulated, the so-called competitors are not," he told a luncheon gathering of 200 at SIUE's Meridian Hall.

Olson said that as common carriers, telephone companies are required to serve all markets irrespective of the volume of business or profit.

Competing suppliers, on the other hand, have been able to "cream-skim" by limiting their operations to only the most profitable markets, he charged.

"Studies made in 1974 reveal that average monthly revenue from basic home telephone service is $7.85 a month," Olson said. "But the average cost of all the equipment and facilities needed to provide this service is about $13.70 a month."

"This difference is covered by the revenue contribution from optional, premium services like extensions, Touch-Tone and Trilline from business services, and, principally, from long distance telephone calls."

"On the average, for example, each interstate long distance call contributes 55 cents to these costs."

"To the extent that the so-called competitors' lower prices for the high-profit services attract customers away from the telephone companies, the contribution made to hold down the cost of local service will be reduced and local telephone users will be forced to pay more."

"If all such contributions were lost, local rates could go up more than 70 per cent."

"The issue is not monopoly versus competition," Olson said. "The monopoly of the common carriers — the regulated telephone companies — is a monopoly of another character, recognized as 'natural' and regulated in its rate of return and pricing."

"The competition concerned is not free and fair competition but contrived competition, with some competitors free and protected while others are constrained."

Olson said the proposed Consumer Communications Reform Act of 1976 seeks to reaffirm the goals of the original Communications Act of 1934 and Congressional commitment to universal, low-cost telephone service.

The bill also seeks a reaffirmation of the principle of natural monopoly in inter-city services, according to Olson. "This concept," he said, "has made it possible to attain the goal of universal service and to avoid an economically wasteful duplication of facilities in the national network."

The Illinois Bell president said the legislation aims at clarifying the definition of fair competition in the telephone industry; it also reaffirms the authority of state regulatory commissions over local telephone equipment.

Nabla the latter point, Olson said the FCC has "manifested an alarming tendency to preempt state regulatory jurisdiction assigned to it by the Communications Act of 1934." He said the proposed legislation has the firm support of the National Association of Regulatory Utilities Commissioners.

Congress will have to decide the future of the telecommunications business because, Olson said, "it is the only body with the perspective to do so, the only body elected to represent all other citizens, the only body responsible for the public's interest in matters of this kind and magnitude."

Olson called for more informed and open dialogue between business and the press. He said business and the press have in common a fundamental responsibility to the public. "Neither you nor we serve that responsibility well when we tear one another apart in an atmosphere of ignorance, half-truths or prejudice, or when we close the door between us to candor, the truth and difficult dialogue."

Man enters house

A resident of Waterman Avenue near Ponton Road, reported at 8:40 p.m. Sunday that a man had twisted off the rear door knob and had entered the basement of the house where the family was at home.

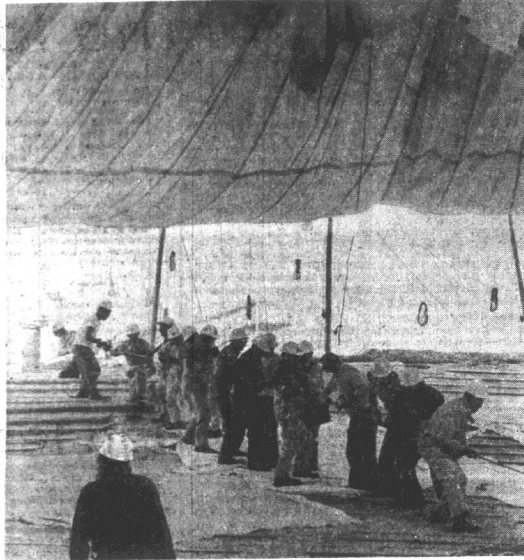

Police responded and searched the basement, but were unable to find anyone. Marks on the rear door knob indicated some kind of wrench had been used to break the door lock and gain entry.

A man living at the house said there had been someone at the front door who rang the doorbell. He said he did not answer and saw a man walk around the house to the rear door, which he then opened and entered.

Several residents from the Eduardo Drive area along Route 162 objected to their area being excluded. The township's attorney, H. Carl Runge, advised them to hire an attorney and appeal to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency to modify the plans and include the area.

Whitwell said several owners of large undeveloped tracts of land have expressed a desire to be included in the sewer district in case they later should subdivide and develop their properties.

ANNUAL TENT TASK. Physical plant workers at SIUE strain as they heave and pull a hoisting rope for the erection of the Mississippi River Festival tent at the Outdoor Performing Arts Center on the campus. Directing the operation is Tentmaster Skip Manley (foreground), former tentmaster with major U.S. circuses. Workers are getting the site ready for the MRF's eighth season, which opens June 23 with the Preservation Hall Jazz Band.

Most easements for new sewers obtained

A lengthy discussion of the proposed Four Township Sanitary Sewer program dominated much of last week's Nameoki Township Board meeting as about 60 residents attended to ask questions of Nameoki Township Supervisor Louis Whitwell, a member of the committee planning the sewer construction.

The mood was generally favorable with most of those present, including some not included in the proposed sewer district, saying they want sewers.

Several residents from the Eduardo Drive area along Route 162 objected to their area being excluded. The township's attorney, H. Carl Runge, advised them to hire an attorney and appeal to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency to modify the plans and include the area.

Whitwell said several owners of large undeveloped tracts of land have expressed a desire to be included in the sewer district in case they later should subdivide and develop their properties.

Concern that the assessed valuation in Districts Two and Three may not be sufficient to support proposed bond sales was expressed. Joe Boyer of State Park Place said he feels bonds for the three areas should be sold as "a package deal." He said this might assure that all three get sewers.

Whitwell said the averaged assessed valuation in two and three is about $3,000 per home, which he said may make them high-risk areas for bonds.

He said if bonds in Districts Two and Three cannot be sold, other financing arrangements will be sought, including grants for impoverished areas.

He said most of the easements needed to route sewers through alleys behind homes have been obtained. About 3,000 to 4,000 easements were required and about 300 or less still are needed, Whitwell said.

Efforts by the townships involved and by area residents are producing more easements each day, he said.

The majority of the easements still needed for District One are in Nameoki Township, with Chouteau Township officials reporting their easement drive is substantially complete.

Whitwell said where easements are not obtained the sewer committee either may file condemnation proceedings against the property owners or reroute sewer lines into streets.

Attempts are being made to have the sewers run behind homes where possible, since most residential sewer outlets are to the rear of the homes for septic tanks there.

Where easements have not been obtained, if sewers are placed in the streets homeowners would have the cost of running lines around the house to the front, the supervisor said.

Whitwell said the sewers are designed to be "bottle tight" and will never be deeper than eight feet under the ground surface.

There are 56 lift stations in the system to enable the sewers to stay shallow and above the water table in most areas, he added.

There were objections at the meeting to a taxing system which would require owners of more expensive homes to pay more for sewers than those in less expensive homes receiving the same sewer service.

Whitwell said he feels the sewers will increase the values of the more expensive homes more than the values of other homes, thereby justifying the difference.

Rites Saturday for Norris Gibson, 31

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Saturday at a Collinsville funeral home for Norris Franklin Gibson, 31, of 234 N. Combs St., Collinsville.

He was killed Thursday when his car overturned on Illinois 157.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Kathy Gibson, formerly of Granite City; a daughter, Tonya Gibson; his father, Edward Gibson of Litchfield, Ill.; his mother, Mrs. Margaret Gibson of Pearl, Ill.; seven brothers, seven sisters and two stepisters.

Advantages

acquired readily at low prices on the Illinois side.

Inexpensive electric power and light. The TRRA contended that costly bridges involved an investment which warranted the price charged for transporting freight across the river, and that a flat rate of 20 cents a ton was better for the city as a whole than a mileage rate to points of delivery in St. Louis.

Cheap water: The Mississippi River offered an adequate and unending supply of water.

Large quantities of water for manufacturing purposes could be secured either from the water company or from private deep wells at rates far below those in St. Louis.

Since the land was low and the surface smooth, it was relatively inexpensive for many companies to pump their own water supply directly from the river with their own facilities.

Differences in legislation: The absence of a smoke ordinance (at that time) offered an advantage for industries that would find the St. Louis regulations a hardship. This was important, inasmuch as the Illinois coal had high sulfur content.

Labor legislation in the two states was somewhat different. Illinois law provided a ten-hour day and sixty-hour week as a maximum, whereas Missouri had a nine-hour day, fifty-four hour week for working women. From the standpoint of a steel firm, however, labor conditions were not seriously affected by different legislation.

Cheap fuel: Most of the railroads crossed one or more of the Southern Illinois coal fields, so that it was possible for Illinois factories to get their coal by direct haul from the mines.

Also, the Terminal Railroad Association established an "arbitrary" difference of 20 cents in rates, so that the rate on a ton of coal from the Illinois bituminous mines within 100 miles of St. Louis, some of them less than 10 miles away, was 52 cents to St. Louis and 52 cents to any point on the Illinois side of the Mississippi.

The Terminal Railroad Association, which comprised most of the railroads that entered St. Louis and controlled all the railway and ferry facilities crossing the river, enforced this freight rate on coal. The TRRA contended that costly bridges involved an investment which warranted the price charged for transporting freight across the river, and that a flat rate of 20 cents a ton was better for the city as a whole than a mileage rate to points of delivery in St. Louis. The shippers, seeking relief from this handicap, built the Merchants Bridge in 1889. But in a few years the Terminal Railroad Association controlled it.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD Mon., May 3, 1976 Page 21

In 1910, a bridge was built by the McKinley traction lines of Illinois, but it had little immediate effect because it connected no belt line facilities for distribution in St. Louis. A third project was the "Free Bridge" which was built with $3,500,000 obtained through a St. Louis bond issue in 1906.

However, the additional bond issue of $2,750,000 to provide the eastern approach to the bridge was defeated, so it remained unused for some time, lacking the prime essential of a bridge—that both ends meet the land.

Despite many efforts in St. Louis to secure the same rate, Illinois enjoyed an advantage in the cost of coal for many years.

The major disadvantage of the Illinois site was the flood potential. This was ward off in Granite City through the construction of a levee.

In Memoriam 33

In Loving Memory of My Dear Husband REV. ROSS SMITH who passed away May 3, 1975. I have lost my life's companion. A life linked with my own. And everyday I miss him more. I walk this life alone. No one knows the silent heart-laches. Only those who have lost can tell. Oh the grief I bear in silence. For the one I loved so well. I never knew that hearts could ache. With such a bitter pain. Longing for a vanishing face. Approximate quantities. I never knew that nights could be so lonely and dim. But I have learned so many things. Because of losing him. If all the world were mine to give. I would give it all and more. To see his face I loved so dear. Come smiling thru my door. Sadly missed by Wife, Son and Daughter. 33 531

ENERGY MANAGEMENT

One of a series discussing how we can achieve the life we want by wise use of energy.

Every home needs two roofs

- an outside roof for a weather shelter
- an inside "roof" for an energy shelter

Years ago when energy was cheap and plentiful, most homes were built with just an outside roof to keep out the elements.

Today, when energy needs to be managed, a second "inside roof" is important. The second roof is the insulation blanket that keeps energy at work inside your home. Without the second roof, heated air drifts lazily through the ceiling. So all winter long your heating system works hard to replace wasted heat.

In summer, the reverse takes place. As the sun bakes your roof, hot air builds up in the attic. Your cooling system never quite catches up.

So the first essential step in home energy management is to install adequate insulation. It's a job you can do yourself with materials from your building supply dealer. Illinois Power will give you a well-illustrated instruction booklet. Or if you'd rather have the job done by a professional we'll give you names of reputable insulation contractors.

Take your first step to Home Energy Management by asking our Energy Use Supervisor for all the facts you need to insulate now.

What Home Energy Management means to you:

more efficient use of your fuel dollars • greater comfort • better humidity control • soundproofing • an investment in better living • increased home value • a contribution to national energy independence.

IT'S OUR BUSINESS TO SERVE YOU BETTER

Red, white and blue theme for Bicentennial

Coordinated by Mrs. Agnes Fryntko, principal, the Bicentennial school year has been filled with varied activities at Parkview School.

Each class has contributed to the celebration.

During Red, White and Blue Day, all students and faculty members dressed in the nation's colors and in colonial attire.

The children have presented George Moore Sr. of the School Board and B. J. Davis, superintendent, a hand-embroidered Community Unit 9 banner which now hangs in a place of honor in the board room among other memorabilia.

Fourth and sixth graders under the direction of Mrs. Mary Jane Fester, vocal music teacher, presented an early American musical, "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

The students participated in songs and dances depicting colonial America and the history of the nation to the present. Classroom teachers assisting were Mrs. Carol Gendron, Mrs. Sandra DeMoulin, Mrs. Jane Jackstadt and Daniel James.

Mrs. Correll reviews book

Mrs. Homer Correll reviewed the book, "Barefoot in the Grass" by William H. Armstrong, concerning the life of Grandma Moses, at the United Presbyterian Church, 22nd Street and Delmar Avenue.

Prizes were awarded to Thelma Ruppell, Viola Edwards, Ethel Beeler, Sandy DeMarlin, Virginia Milster, Edna Lynn, Beaumont Johnson and Lillian Howe.

Members of the Navigator Club served dinner to 54 UPW members and guests who met last week at the First United Presbyterian Church, 22nd Street and Delmar Avenue. President Mrs. Louise Orr welcomed the women and the Rev. Robert Landis, associate pastor, gave the invocation. Those in charge of the arrangements were Mesdames Ray Horn, Walter Pearson, William Jeffers, Adolph Rickett and Miss Lily Dod.

Hospital commended

As an accredited hospital, St. Elizabeth Hospital has received recognition from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH) in observance of National Hospital Week, May 9-15. The letter of commendation, signed by John D. Porterfield, M.D., Director of the Joint Commission contained the following:

"The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals commends your hospital for striving to deliver the optimum in health care to the community.

"Your participation in the process of voluntary accreditation is an expression of a professionally motivated commitment to deliver a high quality of patient care. The fact that you are accredited is evidence that your efforts toward this goal are successful."

Accreditation is awarded to hospitals found to be in substantial compliance with the Joint Commission's standards for the quality of patient care provided.

The standards are considered to be optimal achievable and represent goals of excellence against which a facility can measure itself and be measured by the Commission's accreditation survey team.

A spokesman said, "Voluntary accreditation has made a significant contribution to this country's unmatched excellence in health care. It continues the American tradition of self-reliance and it supports the belief that positive motivation is the most effective impetus to change."

The Joint Commission, celebrating its 25th anniversary during America's Bicentennial year, was founded in 1951 by its present member organizations: the American College of Surgeons, the American College of Physicians, the American Hospital Association and the American Medical Association.

In addition to the hospital accreditation program, the Commission has established accreditation councils for psychiatric facilities, long-term care facilities, facilities for the mentally retarded and ambulatory health care facilities.

Telecast tonight on the Cahokia Mounds

The only prehistoric Indian city north of Mexico, preserved at the Cahokia Mounds historic site here, is the subject of a documentary, "Spotlight Heritage '76 Cahokia Mounds," airing at 7:30 tonight on KETC-TV, Channel 9.

Produced and directed by Edward Hauer of Southern Illinois University, the film draws parallels between the arrangement of the prehistoric city, which incorporated over 100 mounds, and the modern environment in which it is now embedded.

The Cahokia Mounds community, like its modern counterpart, was an urban area with an extensive residential section. Houses were arranged along streets and open plazas, with the agricultural fields outside the city limits.

A stable food source based on a well-developed agricultural system enabled the Indians to develop a complex community with a highly-specialized social, political and religious organization.

Existing now as the largest prehistoric construction in the world, it is ignored by some Midwest residents.

Hauer directs his camera to the massive structure across the river from the site, the Gateway Arch, and wonders how it will be interpreted by people living a thousand years hence.

Some of the unanswered questions surrounding the site are also raised. Why were high defensive stockades around the city in 1150 A.D.? And where did the residents of that organized society go?

Police dance is sold out

The Madison Police dance scheduled Saturday, May 8, at the Croatian Home in Madison, has sold all tickets and there will be no admissions at the door, according to Officer Donald Bridick, dance chairman.

"On behalf of our police unit I want to thank everyone for his support and I hope not too many people will be disappointed," Bridick said.

Madison Police Unit 110 holds the dance every year as a fund-raising project for the club, which sponsors Law Enforcement Explorer Post 10-4, children's safety programs and charitable projects.

Burglars flee

One box of lollipops was the only thing believed stolen during a burglary at Sheridan Drugs, 23rd and State streets, at 1:45 a.m. Sunday.

A neighbor called police to say he heard glass breaking and then an alarm sounding at the drugstore. He said he looked to see two youths or men fleeing toward 22nd Street.

Three police cars searched the neighborhood, but were unable to locate anyone suspicious. They found a plate glass window next to the front door had been broken out.
